The effects of smoking on the eyes

In his article, Dr. Ammar Safar, Consultant Ophthalmologist and Vitreoretinal Surgeon, Medical Director at Moorfields Eye Hospitals UAE, highlights the impact on the health of eyes from smoking.

Most people are very aware that smoking in all forms can cause cancer, lung and heart disease, as well as many other chronic health ailments. But did you know that smoking is one of the most harmful habits for the eyes? A study by the British Medical Journal found that smokers are up to four times more likely to go blind in old age; however, many smokers are not aware of the risk. Below, I will discuss four eye-related risk factors that smokers and those frequently exposed to tobacco smoke should know.
